'Football mad' directors become rivals

Football fanatics Mike Webster and Nick King have been good friends and colleagues for many years - but that is all about to change.

The two Hills Group directors will be firm rivals and place themselves at opposite ends of the stadium when they watch Swindon Town take on Sheffield Wednesday this Saturday at the County Ground.

"We are good mates at work and get on really well but, when it comes to football, there can be no agreement," they both laugh.

"Nick is a Robins supporter and I support The Owls - so we decided to sponsor Saturday's match," said Mike. "The extreme weather had us a bit worried for a couple of days, but we have just heard that the game is going ahead."

"Of course we both think that our teams can win," says Nick. "We have a small bet going and whoever loses will have to wear the winning team's strip for a day!"

Irrespective of who wins, one thing is for sure – it will be back to business as usual on Monday morning.
