

The Hills Group sponsors KVAT film nights

KVAT, Kennet Valley Arts Trust is bringing the magic of the movies to Marlborough with help from the Hills Group. Hills will sponsor the new Thursday film nights in the historic Marlborough Town Hall.

KVAT is delighted that long standing local family business the Hills Group has endorsed the film nights with their sponsorship. Mike Hill, chief executive of the Hills Group, said: “Hills has supported KVAT ever since the charity first started. KVAT has some exciting plans for the future and we are pleased to be able to offer our support at this crucial stage.”

Marlborough Town Council and KVAT have invested in state of the art film projection equipment, including the latest screen and sound system and black out devices - enabling KVAT to put on more films and possibly stream live productions from theatres around the world.

A KVAT spokesperson says: “Not only will the Thursday film night contribute to the cultural renaissance in the town; it will also make a huge difference to the community, providing it with another cultural amenity. Marlborough now has the Jazz Festival and Literature Festival and a central venue for film. We hope there is something for everyone and if not, we would love suggestions.”

Anna Karenina (12A) will be showing on Thursday 21 February 2013, 7.30pm in the Town Hall.

Tickets are £5 in advance or £6 on the door and can be booked via the KVAT website www.kvat.co.uk or purchased at White Horse Bookshop (136 High Street, Marlborough) or Sound Knowledge (22 Hughenden Yard, Marlborough).
